	Flood Recovery Plan and Flood Recovery Transition Plan
	The Chair advised that the following documents had been provided via email for feedback:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Municipal Recovery Plan (amended based on feedback at previous meetings)</li> <li>• Flood Recovery Transition Plan (internal Council document to guide the transition process away from funded recovery to ensure continuity of progress on key recovery priorities)</li> </ul>
	Discussion
	Municipal Recovery Plan:
5	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Members would like additional time to review the Municipal Recovery Plan for endorsement at the next meeting</li> <li>• The Chair stated that she considers it to be a risk that there is no mention of funding for ongoing staff positions to lead the transition from funded recovery to future resilience projects. She highlighted that given Maribyrnong's significant risk profile, her advice would be to build an ongoing recovery to resilience lead position into the organisation as an operational function.</li> </ul>
	Flood Recovery Transition Plan:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Paul Larsen advised that the Flood Recovery Transition Plan should include an action to allocate a staff member to prepare long-term project proposals, identify grant opportunities and prepare submissions so that the</li> </ul> community priority projects are shovel-ready when funding becomes available. He would like to see this include a focus on incentivising resilient rebuilding. He noted that it could be significant time before the advocacy priorities are funded, however there is a need to dedicate staff to project planning for when this happens and seek funding opportunities.

- Andrew Monteiro advised there is a need for the resilience programs to be ongoing and remain on Council's agenda.

Action: Council to re-send Municipal Recovery Plan and Flood Recovery Transition Plan for feedback.

Community Representative blank canvas session

The Chair provided a summary of where the CRC has been since it was established (see attached).

Members advised that the free Maribyrnong Aquatic Centre memberships and additional hard waste collection programs should be added to the list as impactful programs.

The Chair opened the floor to each of the community representatives. She advised this time can be considered a blank canvas. With only four meetings left, the goal of this section is to ensure all members have the opportunity to raise anything they think is important at this point.

Mike Caridi

Mike highlighted the importance of timing. He observed that initially after the flood, many of the right initiatives were delivered potentially at the wrong time. He advised that initially after a disaster, the most important activity is to provide 'boots on the ground' and be visibly providing tangible support.

When reflecting on what he wanted to achieve as a CRC member, Mike said the two key priorities are delivering the appropriate literature on how to be prepared, and helping community understand what has changed for the agencies involved in response following the flood. He also noted the importance of insurance support.

Mike advised he would like to hear from Melbourne Water and VicSES directly on the following points:

1. Where am I getting warnings from? What if I don't have a phone? Who do I receive these from? Where can I find the river gauge?
2. How can we be confident in the warnings?
3. What has been improved since the flood?
4. Can agencies commit to undertaking an exercise per year?

Mike advised he wants to feel confident that the flood preparedness initiative will be impactful by ensuring the inputs are accurate.

Andrew Montiero advised he would like to understand how mitigation outcomes from the Melbourne Water Flood Mitigation Study may change the data from the flood model and have implications for warnings.

Action: Council to invite Melbourne Water to the next meeting to pose questions about what has changed.

Action: Martina to review the Q&A document drafted by the Municipal Emergency Management Planning Committee responding to questions raised at the Maribyrnong Community Planning Day Workshop for accessibility.

Mary Cameron

Mary read a poem that she wrote when reflecting on the CRC.

She also highlighted the continual need to repair and maintain trust with community. She advised that many residents in her street experienced flooding in their yards however it did not impact their house. She advised that many of these residents were rejected for the rates rebates available to impacted community, which she feels damaged the relationship between council and community. She advised that the relationship may not have been damaged if it was clear they were not eligible before applying. She advised these residents still have pride in place, and many irreplaceable items were damaged in residents' gardens.

Mary also advised she would like to see a list compiled of resources available to support people in the aftermath of a flood from the beginning.

Andrew advised that a lot of services were available in the first twelve months, but many did not know what was available. He advised that simple things like guidance to find a geotechnical engineer would be helpful.

Andrew Monteiro

Andrew advised that we will likely see cases of people who took early cash settlements requiring assistance. Many of these people took cash settlements that were insufficient to rebuild without the knowledge or support to dispute the amount.

He also highlighted the need for mental health support and that people are still struggling. He emphasised the need to find opportunities to continue to provide mental health and wellbeing support, as well as legal support for insurance claims.

Andrew also highlighted the need to focus on the value of the community and the people, not the value of the houses. He noted that after the flood, volunteers washed his clothes and linen and returned this to him and his family, he asked "where else would you find this in a community?"

Paul Larsen

Paul has been reflecting on the following question: "What do we do better next time?"

---

He also highlighted a need for the following items:

- Victoria Police to update their processes for closing the road during a flood event as they did not close off all roads that were flooded – he saw someone drive into flood waters
- VicSES to communicate what has changed based on their learnings in 2022
- An annual simulation exercise with all agencies involved in flood response
- Council to continue to advocate for community needs long-term
- An ongoing role to support future planning, with an emphasis on advocacy and supporting the development of project plans that are 'shovel-ready' so that initiatives like resilient rebuilds are ready as soon as funding becomes available
- Mental health support - moving home doesn't mean it is over – the four in his household are all at different stages of recovery
- Continuous learning from others

Paul observed that many in the community have rebuild 'as is' instead of raising their homes or making them more resilient for future flooding. He emphasised that advocacy for resilient rebuilding incentives needs to continue long-term so that next time it floods, the opportunity is available to communities before they start rebuilding.

He ended by posing the question "How do we make this better for the next generation?"

Andrew highlighted the need for residents to be able to learn from each other.

Key messages

Members identified the following key messages for members to share with community:

1. The CRC are connecting with Melbourne Water to seek clear, tangible information on what has changed since October 2022 and the reliability of the data available
2. The CRC and Council are planning for a smooth transition away from funded recovery programs. This planning aims to embed ongoing recovery priority activities into operational council activity across all directorates
3. We are in this together

Close meeting

The Chair thanked members for their participation, vulnerability, and time.

Members highlighted that recovery is a long-term process and will continue in Maribyrnong for a long time to come.
